

PINK SHIRT DAY
St Johns Hill School supports being Bully Free!!

Bullying is a very serious and distressing experience. Many children and young people carry the effects of bullying into their adult lives and relationships. Bullying can happen anywhere and to anyone, in lots of different ways. It could be in a physical place, such as the playground, the classroom, the sports field or the park. Or, it might take place online or on a mobile phone, through social media, online games or by text message. No matter where or how it happens, we all have a responsibility to make it stop. All children and young people have the right to feel safe, secure, accepted and valued. To achieve this, boards of trustees, school leadership and staff, students and their parents and whānau all need to work together. The Cross Sector Bullying Prevention Advisory group is a collaboration of 18 organisations who have put out an excellent resource about tackling bullying. It is informative about what bullying is and also what to do! Go online to: www.bullyingfree.nz to view. It is an excellent guide for parents and whanau. Year 6 students have been involved in Graphic Design with the support of Kylie Munn. They have produced these amazing posters in support of Anti Bullying week.

Kids Literacy Quiz

Last week our Kids Literacy Quiz Team travelled to New Plymouth for the regional finals. Our Year 6 team competed against 35 other teams, mostly Year 7 and 8 teams. There are ten categories for the teams to answer, each with ten questions. Some of these categories were rodents, rivers, roads, shapeshifters and spiders! An example of a question is: A famous spider can weave messages. How many messages did she weave in the barn? (A clue is read Charlotte's Web for the answer!)

The St Johns Hill Team, Piper Gaisford, Cosette Guy, Liam Meijer and Caleb Richardson placed second in the Year 6 teams and 15th overall. A fantastic result for the first time we have competed at this competition. We congratulate Whanganui Intermediate on their 1st and 3rd place. SJHS ANZAC Service

As my class merges out the door I see every other class of year 4,5,6, do a crisp salute to the soldiers of ANZAC. Clasped between my fingers is a little, dainty cut rosemary. All in a millisecond, the haunting tune of the bugle rang out across the field. Then as fast as it started, it stopped. After one minute it started again. This time I stood at attention. Then it was the end of our ANZAC service. By Alex Beitchef Room 6

School Closed Wednesday 29th May—Strike Day

Primary and secondary teachers across New Zealand have both voted overwhelmingly in favour of taking joint strike action on 29 May, NZEI Te Riu Roa and the Post Primary Teachers' Association (PPTA) announced today.

Primary principals also voted in favour of the strike. Primary teachers and principals voted in secret ballots at meetings across the country over the last week, while in the same period the PPTA held an online ballot of secondary school teachers.

The joint strike will see the largest ever industrial action by New Zealand teachers, covering almost 50,000 members across the two unions. The unions are calling for a day of action for the future of education on 29 May, and are encouraging parents and the public to join them at public events around the country.

NZEI Te Riu Roa president Lynda Stuart says teachers are raising their voices together to say they need the government to prioritise addressing the education crisis.

"Giving teachers time to teach and to lead, and ensuring teaching is a viable long-term career choice, is essential if children are to get the teaching and learning they deserve. We know we have enormous support from parents and we ask all New Zealanders to support us in our fight for the future of education in New Zealand.

Teachers have spoken – they want the government to find a solution, now. Our children cannot wait and neither can our teachers."
